

Camille Cole –

Camille Cole is a retired educator who currently writes full time. Her current book, The Brass Bell, is her first full-length narrative non-fiction work. The Brass Bell was published by Sahalie Publishing Company in Eugene, Oregon.

Her non-fiction books include Videoconferencing for K-12 Classrooms, 2004, 2009; and the author of Connecting Students to S.T.E.M. Careers, Social Networking Strategies, 2011, both published by the International Society for Technology in Education (ISTE), Washington, DC and Eugene, Oregon.

She is currently working on a memoir, Growing up Nancy, and a novel, Nine Mile Creek.

She lives in Portland, Oregon.